About us

We are the Arts Council England.
We give money to projects to make arts and culture happen in England.

When we say arts and culture, we mean things like:

- music and dance

- theatre and circus

- libraries and museums

- books and poems

- festivals and carnivals

- paintings, photos and sculptures

When we say project, we mean a piece of work.

About National Lottery Project Grants

We want people and organisations to send us new ideas about arts and culture projects.

You can send us your idea at any time.

This booklet gives you information about sending us your idea from 1st November 2023.

We will give money to the best ideas, to make the projects happen.

You can ask us for £1, 000 to £100, 000 or more for your project.

We call the money a National Lottery Project Grant. In this booklet, we will call it a grant for short.

Important:

We cannot give money to every idea. If we say no to your idea, you might be able to ask us again.

Special projects

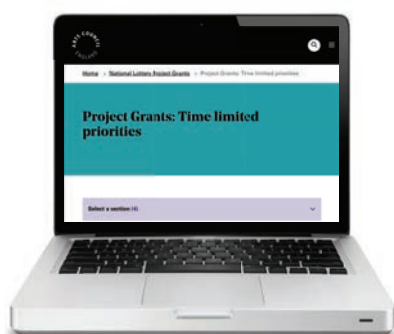

Sometimes, we want people to send us ideas about special type of project.

For example ideas that help young people in their local community.

We will tell people when they can ask for a grant for these projects.

You can find more information about these projects on our website:

[www.artscouncil.org.uk/
ProjectGrants/project-grants-time-limited-priorities](http://www.artscouncil.org.uk/ProjectGrants/project-grants-time-limited-priorities)

It is not in easy read. You might want to ask someone to help you read it.

Types of projects

Your project might things like:

- a show or an event

- teaching people new skills

- research. Research means looking at something to find out more about it

- training organisations about arts and culture

- supporting other arts and culture activities

About your project

Your project should:

- have a start date and a date when you think the work will finish

- have a list of things you want to do or see happen

- support people in England to experience or take part in arts and culture. This could be during the project or in the future

We give money to projects that will last for up to 3 years.

Who your project is for

Your project should make a difference to communities in England. It should help them to enjoy arts and culture.

When we say communities, we mean people who might:

- be in the same group or background. For example older people or people with the same race or culture

- like the same things. For example students or people who are in a choir

- live in the same place like a street or town

Who can ask us for a grant

Individuals:

An individual means a single person or someone who owns their own business.

To ask for a grant as an individual, you must:

- live in the UK

- be older than 18

- have a bank account with your name on it. You must use the same name when you apply to us

We have another type of grant for individuals. You can find more information on page 21.

Organisation

An organisation can be a charity, business or group.

To ask for a grant for an organisation, the organisation must:

- be in the UK
- have a manager who is older than 18

- have a bank account with the name of the organisation on it

2 people from the organisation should look after the bank account. This means they can both do things like pay money and write cheques

Organisations can work together on a project. 1 organisation must lead the work.

Times when you must check with us first

There are some times when you might need to check with us first before you apply.

You must check with us first if you:

- want to apply for more than one project

You still need to ask, if you are waiting for our decision.

- need us to make a decision quickly

Who cannot ask us for a grant

We cannot give a National Lottery Project Grant to:

- organisations that we already work with and give money to or

- anyone who has had a National Lottery Project Grant and owes us money

You must pay us back before you ask for a grant for a new project.

Extra rules for some projects

We have extra rules for some projects.
This might be projects about:

- buying equipment

- building something

- children or young people and learning

- an activity that involves other countries around the world

- libraries

- reading and writing

- museums

- a project that has already taken place that you want to do again

- research

- digital technology. This means things like phones, laptops and tablets

If your project is about these things, you can find more information on our website:

artscouncil.org.uk/national-lottery-project-grants-guidance-library

It is not in easy read. You might want to ask someone to help you read it.

Times when we will say no

There are some times when we cannot give you a National Lottery Project Grant.

We will say no if:

- your project is not about arts and culture

- you haven't told us enough information about your project

- your project is for part of learning at a school, college or university

- you are asking for money for:
- things that will happen after the project has finished

- things that have already happened before you asked us for a grant

- things you have bought before we make a decision about your project

We will say no if:

- you want to put on a show at the Edinburgh Fringe Festival

- you want to give the money away as a prize

- your project will make its own money that you will not put towards the project

- you want to give the money to charity

- you use the money to pay to make up for using a lot of energy. For example, paying to plant a tree

If you ask us for a grant and we say no, you can ask us again.

You should first look at why we said no. Then you should fix your idea before you ask us again.

How to apply

You can apply by filling in a form online.

We use an online programme called Grantium.

Read our easy read booklet with more information about how to apply.

Other types of grant

We have another type of grant we can give to individuals. This grant is called Developing your Creative Practice.

This grant is:

- only for individuals. Organisations cannot apply for this grant

- from £2, 000 to £12, 000

- for activities that last up to 1 year

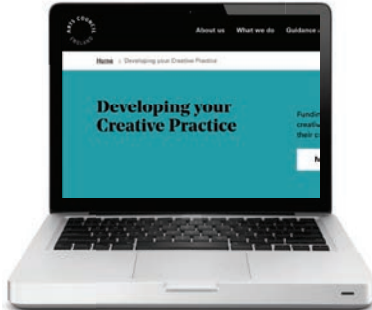

There are only 4 times in the year when you can apply for this grant.

You cannot apply for a National Lottery Project Grant and a Developing your Creative Practice grant at the same time.

You must wait for our decision about your National Lottery Project Grant before you apply to Developing your Creative Practice.

You can find more information about Developing your Creative Practice here:

www.artscouncil.org.uk/dycp

It is not in easy read. You might need to ask someone to help you read it.
